

Pleased to Meet You!

My name is Andy Liwen, and I am a global executive with extensive experience in making cutting edge technology become a business advantage. I am so excited about the chance to help you with your business needs. I have a genius level IQ so let's turn that brain and my proven ability to organize and get the business results that you need accomplished. Let's do it right now while we can succeed and win.

Expertise Highlights:

Leadership in Technology as a Business Advantage: I lead from the front and get totally immersed with the project. For my team proposals, I always wrote the executive summary and let the competitive, winning theme paint itself through the piece. My track record demonstrates how I pull tech and biz together into one powerful team.

Tech, Architecture, and Security: I bring together a wealth of technology savvy. I have implemented global level architectures down to "edge cloud" SOC Raspberry Pi level systems. I am a guru in privacy and security including computer, network, and identity. Yet I still love my roots in programming and write damn fine Rust and Python code.

Strategic Business Services: I have led and motivated huge solution organizations including opening new markets with new business models. As a team, we have pursued $1B and beyond transformational projects and succeeded. I make things happen – because it's all about building a powerful team and powerful communities within the team.

The AI Lever: I am going to give you an unfair advantage with AI. I did novel, foundational work at AT&T's lab in AI planning, navigation, and orchestration systems over a 5-year stint. Novel planning systems drive virtual robotics, intelligent orchestration, and automation. This can change the human – computer experience forever. Let's use this to your advantage. Please see: <https://youtu.be/-RIRvWHfBE4>

Let's Get Started!

This note is tucked in with other material I have sent you so please have a look at those and let's get your project started. Let's collaborate and drive success together. Please be in touch – I am ready!

Email: andy@act2.tech

Text or Cell Call: +1 512-963-0190